Why don't we go ahead and get started even though we have a relatively small group in the room. I think others will trickle in. Apparently I had something is up with the coalition website. So I changed the link on there to make it point to this room, but I'll investigate that after we're done this morning. So welcome, everyone. To what's going to be a shorter than usual coalition meeting this Friday. We really wanted to still hold the space for folks to be able to share what they're seeing on the streets in particular and then share any emerging concerns or things that we can do to help those who are outdoors. The context this week as clearly it has been. The weather has been a little bit more habitable. Outside this week. We haven't had to have daily cold weather meetings. With the county. However, those there are meetings that have still been going on this week. And looking at at our 10 day forecast. It does look like there's the possibility over the weekend of temperatures getting near freezing but we are not looking at another cold spell. At least in the current 10 day forecast. So with that background, why don't we just go ahead and open things up to talk about what folks are seeing on the streets. And if you could just

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

raise your hand or use the raised hand function and let me know what you're seeing and what you'd like to share. We can go through that. So anything, Jan?

Janet Runbeck

Yes. Um, earlier this week. I got a phone call from Jay, who I hope can join us here. Jay was notified somehow either through our inclement weather listserv, or somehow Jay was notified that fo B hope was out of water. And so I was able my husband you know, has that connection with nourish warehouse went down broke open a pallet of bottled water brought 200 bottles of water plus some other items from the nourish warehouse, but it was oh it was on it was on a holiday it was on a Christmas weekend holiday. The parliament that my question is why is there no city of Tacoma contact person available for City of Tacoma sanctioned sites at the beginning of COVID, when city of Tacoma was opening up warming centers then there was a city of Tacoma representative because MRC provided nursing coverage at some of these warming centers. And I was able to call the City of Tacoma when there was an issue. So do do we know that the city of Tacoma is not offering management support during off, you know, holidays and weekends and all that, that that is that that was the big glaring problem that I recognized for that particular incident.

Rob Huff

Yeah, I don't think we have anybody from the city on the call right now. I did want to share I did have a conversation with Caleb Carbone from the city a couple of days ago. And one of the things that I I wasn't aware of this situation but I did let him know that one of the challenges ongoing challenges that we keep having, both with the city and the county in terms of response to cold and hot weather instances is that they always seem to be happening on weekends and across holidays and that severely impacts the ability to do outreach and to get things to people. So I told him that was one of the the point of the conversation I had with Caleb was to kind of debrief a little bit on some of the things that I said and Matt Driscoll is column that came out last weekend. And that was one of the points I wanted to make with him. So I think we probably need to double back with Caleb and see if he has a more specific answer. I'm not I'm definitely not aware since I'm not in between those city sanction sites and the city staff where what the contact procedures are between those folks on weekends and holidays.

Rob Huff

Sally I think I think the answer to that question is No not yet. Richard might be able to share a little bit of perspective on that. Go ahead, Richard.

Richard Dorsett

Um, I don't see what the question is.

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

Rob Huff

Yeah, the question was whether the folks that 35th and Pacific have their the awnings that were supposed to be put over the tents there yet.

Richard Dorsett

No, no, no. I posted in chat, but I think it got truncated. No, we were there yesterday afternoon and there's still no canopies over the tents. Communications is erratic right now. What I am told is that the encampment at 25th and Pulau has been noticed that they will be swept this coming Tuesday morning. There is some talk that they are going to try to resist and have asked other people to join them and the resistance to the sweeps. I don't know what this means. I'm going to try to get some I have some let's call it resistance artwork from from the Western Regional Advocacy Project in San Francisco that I'll try and get some of that stuff up on the telephone poles, but it's a pretty ensconced encampment, and we're just gonna see how it goes. So I'm gonna get down there at 930 or 10 o'clock this coming Tuesday. Again, with communications we're not getting noticed. So this is what they're telling the people living there. Whether they show whether they don't show Who the heck knows but we'll be down there keeping an eye on that come Tuesday

Rob Huff

Thank you Richard. Yeah, go ahead kind of

Kenneth King

a Richard did you get the chance to see the ice if there was an ice buildup at any of the any of the camps, especially like on 30 beds, because I know that their tents were soaked?

Richard Dorsett

I have. I haven't and again, this is where communications is difficult. They don't want people like me going into the encampment. There's I don't know what you use word accountability. How do you know? You hear second hand from people that say things are still wet? But there's no ability to go in and verify what's what so no, I specifically have not seen it. I do see the the tarps have been put over the tents and tied down. But there are no none of the canopies like they haven't FOB hope, which are really essential for keeping ice out. Now. I am hearing that there are heaters in the tents which may be a good thing but I'm also have was hearing quite a bit about condensation within the tents so what's actually going on inside of the tents I just don't know and can't can't give you accurate information about that.

Kenneth King

So we know that those igloo tents are basically like quilted, regular fabric. And that's one of the reasons that they weren't holding back any of the rain and we were really worried about the ice buildup and how

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

that would affect it. Maybe maybe would have worked like an actual igloo we didn't know so if anybody hears about that let us know please adequate ahead and you're muted and just so you know.

Rob Huff

Ed Jacobs

Yeah, you know your skip a couple of meetings you forget how to do.

Rob Huff

Zoom. It's hard.

Ed Jacobs

I'm not sure that we ever verified anything inside tents. We would ask and and except the information that we got. And to me going into somebody's tent to verify something I'm not real comfortable doing that. That's thorough home. So I'm kind of concerned about being able to verify those things. Secondly, I have a very good friend and my Bible study that used to be on the street is not anymore. knows everybody on the street, so to speak. And he said that they are absolutely at their wit's end as far as they have no idea where they're going. They have no idea what to do. Because all of the places that they knew have been swept and the city is keeping them out of being settled. So I just wanted to to let everybody know it's gotten to the point where some of the people that he knows are just throwing up their hands and sitting down they have absolutely no idea what to do.

Rob Huff

Yeah, that's really troubling it thanks for sharing that. Jan

Janet Runbeck

is anybody following the growing encampment at China Lake?

Rob Huff

I'm aware of it but I have not visited it. Have you been by there at all? Richard?

Richard Dorsett

No, I just know at secondhand mostly from Jan's reports. I haven't been there yet.

Janet Runbeck

Definitely growing you can see that from the from Highway 16. It's definitely getting larger.

Richard Dorsett

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

A number of the encampments are getting larger and we're seeing I would characterize as more desperate locations of encampments, people were putting them in places they were not putting them a year ago. Higher up on hillsides, people were trying to hide more than they were so we're seeing them in you know, China Lake might be an example but all around town where there are groves, trees and whatnot. The encampment at Portland bridge on the piala River has expanded now to both the north and south side of the river. So there are quite a number of tents down in that area. I'm not sure how to access that other than walking down there. They haven't done that yet, but it's hard to get a good view of it. But there are a large number of tents that are down there now. Again, seemingly from the scattering of the other sweeps that have gone on but it's it's hard to it's hard to verify all that

Rob Huff

Okay, anyone else who wants to share updates on what they're seeing on the streets? Yeah, go ahead, kind of.

Kenneth King

So, as we predicted and expected our team, we had a really a slow week during the ice. And as soon as everything started to warm up is when we got a big bump in referrals and actually revisitation from clients that we hadn't seen in a while. So we were correct that people were hunkering down during the cold and then coming back out for services afterwards.

Rob Huff

Yeah, that makes sense. Teresa,

Theresa Power-Drutis

just in our neighborhood, you all know about the boulders that went up and how very very ugly they are if you've seen them, but lately some of the campers who used to be here are coming and putting up their tents and then being kicked out like the next day and putting up and so we've the you know, we only have one or two tents at a time. That get keep getting moved. Out. But I can tell you that it's really kind of a tragic sight. It's really it's even uglier than just the boulders to see people trying to wedge their tents between these monstrous things. So I don't know where this is going to go the neighbors or get up in arms every time someone puts a tent up. And I don't know how the city's going to manage to keep I mean, if our neighborhood has this many times where people have had to come back and remove campers. It's got to be being repeated across the city and it's just when do they say this isn't working and try something new. That was into the atmosphere? I don't really expect an answer.

Rob Huff

Yeah, I think it's an interesting observation though, because because I think you're right it is going to be repeated across the city. So the person on the phone has their hand up, go ahead.

Sarah Mitchell

Hi, this is Sarah with como rescue mission. We're seeing a huge increase of individuals who are unfortunately outside of our scope of care being dropped off by the police. Also, the hospitals are getting these people cabs and Ubers and just dropping them off and we're not a respite site. So it's been difficult for us to try to find places for these individuals so they can be safe and warm and taken care of properly. I just learned that's a huge thing that we're experiencing right now.

Rob Huff

Thank you for sharing that Sarah. So, Keith, yeah, I wonder if you could offer some thoughts.

Keith Helmka

The morning Sarah. My name is Keith. I'm a social worker and a manager with the Franciscan health system. And if our healthcare system is participating in that behavior specifically, that would be St. Joseph Medical Center or St. Clair. Hospital. Our commitment to the coalition is that if we have any opportunity to hear about those in real time, so that we can AutoCorrect and provide some education to our staff. We would appreciate that. Sometimes, sometimes the care management department the social workers and the nurse care managers in the emergency department aren't part of the disposition especially out of the emergency department and and we can do our best to do some teaching and training with the emergency department staff in general, but, you know, we want to lean into that relationship. And if you'd like I'll put my email information in the chat. And maybe you and I can make contact separately. Yeah, that'd be great. Thank you so much.

Rob Huff

Yeah, well, thank you for addressing that. Keith. Glad you're here. Yeah. Courtney,

Courtney Love

why one she's on the phone so she might need your email out loud. To you. I'd like to know what kind of needs these people have that cannot be served by DRM so that we know what what needs we have in community to create, what services we need to create for the people. And then is it possible for TRM people to document when this happens so we know the needs of the people and where they're coming from. So we know how to trace the problem back kind of thing. Thank you.

Rob Huff

Yeah, thanks. Thanks for the those points, Courtney. i It's it's actually becoming a more and more common situation where folks are medically fragile and unable to be served in the shelter system as it exists. Jan and I went back and forth, along with James Pogue this week regarding a man whose lit I think it was a 65 year old man living in his vehicle being helped by a neighbor who was seeking some sort of shelter for this person.

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

Rob Huff

And he was too medically fragile to be able to, to be able to be served at park place, for instance. So there are huge gaps in the system and the need for medical respite care. And then also, this is actually in the situation with the guy in his vehicle. It was not a respite care situation. It's actually probably needed. Medicare or Medicaid sort of level care.

So yeah, and then Jerome, you mentioned TFT cares. Yeah. And as Jan is shaking her head vigorously the funding for that program, and tomorrow, so we were informed that's going to end at the end of the year, so that won't be a resource going forward. All right. So Sarah, was there more that you wanted to share?

Sarah Mitchell

Um, just to answer their question real quickly. Individual individuals who are unable to get in and out of our bed system, whether that's on the men's side or the women's side. We don't have a lot of cots for everyone who doesn't get a bed. So if they're unable to, you know, take care of themselves, be self sufficient and whether that's going to the bathroom on their own or showering on their own getting in and out of bed on their own. That's outside of our scope of care. That's kind of what we are facing a lot of we you know, we could do our best but, you know, it doesn't help them if we're not equipped to take care of them. And it is true. We don't have enough respite sites and a lot of individuals don't think that they need help, which is understandable because that's their pride and that's their will. But that also makes it difficult, but there's just I know there's no site realistically available for people who need that. That help. It just it sucks.

Rob Huff

Yeah.

Thank you, Sarah. And thank you for bringing the issue to the forefront. J your hands on

Jay Warley

sir and others that see people that can't get care can we start putting it through the coalition listserv when you do find those people with like I found this person they are not able to be received care from TR and because of they need this care. And if nothing else, we can start documenting it. So we have some hard documentation to show officials that could do more if they know more.

Sarah Mitchell

I could definitely get with my team and my supervisors and we could definitely get that going.

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

Jay Warley

Super awesome. Thank you. The more documentation we can collect, the more that we can build cases and work against the state and work against entities that say that they can't see it.

Rob Huff

Yep, information is king in this situation. Anyone else who had any items from the streets this week?

Keith Helmka

I just know personally from my transit from Manito to downtown Tacoma daily, they go down Center Street and I noticed the underpass under Yakima has been cleared mostly cleared that wood that's kind of a tiny encampment but pretty long standing. So I'm quite surprised that they that they extracted them.

Rob Huff

Yeah, and I would expect just to I see your hand, Andrea, we'll get right to you. I would expect though with the city's sweep schedule that they have posted, especially within the areas that are covered by the camping ban. That starting next week, we'll probably see an acceleration of any sites that are within those boundaries. Folks being contacted, and if not directly ordered to leave, essentially being kind of scared into leaving. So it's one of the things we're going to have to unfortunately it's going to be the great reshuffling if they continue with their current plan. Go ahead, Andrea. Wow,

Andrea Haug

I have kind of a similar comment. That's disturbing to hear about this industry camp. I've been doing outreach at South 72nd and D and the one day Friday, I happened to go out of town. I was receiving all kinds of texts from friends and neighbors. They're clearing the camp. And I said what are you talking about? Because it wasn't on the schedule. There was no notice given it was the campers were given, I believe. Wait, was it Friday? I'm sorry. I'm sorry. It was Tuesday. My days are screwed up. They were given till Wednesday to be gone. And that's what the campers that were left on Wednesday because as soon as I got back into town the next day I drove straight over there in the morning and pulled up and was like Hey, you know what happened here? And they said we have to have to leave and TPD was there when I pulled up solid waste. Was there a cleaning app so someone had to have given directions for the police and for solid waste to be there because that have to be scheduled? And so I contacted NCS I went out Thursday morning driving around seeing if I could find some of the campers that I had been in contact with to find out what happened because there was a senior couple there. The camera told me there was a veteran there who I personally didn't meet but I was trying to direct people to services and such and now they're all dispersed. And so I went down to the planet fitness on East I in 72nd to see if people had moved down to that camp where they'd been staying in the shrub. And that looked like it had been cleared. And I shocked because Where did where did all these people go? So yeah, I Sorry, I was signed in late but I wanted to make sure to come here and touch base with you all

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

because it does appear that encampments are being swept but I talked to Lieutenant Katz TPD and he didn't have any scheduled sweeps. So he's trying to look into it. He's also checking into the camper said that one of the officers in particular wasn't particularly kind. So he's looking into that too, but without being able to contact any of the people that were dispersed like no formal complaint can be made and nothing can like be worked on to resolve the issue if there was something about the officers performance that wasn't you know, that wasn't that needed to be corrected or directed, you know, with you know, gentle guidance like oh, hey, you can't approach this way or so we're we're getting on I feel like somebody somewhere told somebody to go sweep these areas, but no one seems to know who that is. Thank you.

Rob Huff

Yeah, thank you, Andre. I'm looking at that webpage that I just put the link in the chat, too, and I don't see any mention of that particular sweep. So yeah, and I also see your comment Sally.

Rob Huff

I don't know what has happened with the city. I'm gonna get a hold of Caleb after this meeting and and be sure to request that they returned to letting us know about sweeps. They seem to be relying on this webpage rather than notifying us. And with the number of sweeps that folks are mentioning. It's much higher numbers than we had seen previously in the year two. Dion

Dionne Jacobson

excuse me, sorry. So I'm not on the streets. I'm more in my office talking to people that are in the streets. And I'm kind of looking for input because what I'm hearing a lot of when I'm hearing from people on the phone or by email is that they are having a hard time accessing resources including St. Vincent DePaul, because they don't want to leave their stuff because they are far from us now. So we're within a camping ban radius. And I'm unsure at this point and I just I'm open to brainstorming ideas with this group and literally anybody who wants to shoot me an email of how we can address the new barriers of people not being able to access the resources easily. Because I'm already hearing that it's a problem. And I haven't come up with any creative solutions to it. So I've asking people when I'm talking to them, but they don't know quite yet either. You know, it kind of takes community so if anybody has any input, I would love to hear

Rob Huff

it. Thanks for calling it out. Courtney

Courtney Love

a couple of things. One is I drove past the five street like 39th street and they had like a two person cleanup crew out there which gave me pretty sweet vibes, early sweet vibes. But I didn't see any posting but I didn't stop. I was kind of in route to something. So I saw action there. But to my knowledge, nothing scheduled. And then regarding what Deion said, you know, I think it's really important that we be documenting as much of this as possible. You know, how many people is say you know, 25 year old black female complaints can't come in. Because too far, you know, whatever the complaint is. A plain detailed list of that would be helpful. And then I talked to Christina Walker who's who supposes but doesn't know for sure. That the review is going to come at the end of December, but that's a little shy of three months review for the camping ban. But we also all need to step up during public comment. When the time for the camping ban review comes up because we're the ones that you know, aside from the people on the street, living it, this space providers were the one you're the ones that know the most about what the impact and you can't be disregarded quite the same way as the homeless people can. So we really need people to be prepared to step up and speak out. Thank you.

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

Rob Huff

Thank you, Courtney. Jay,

Jay Warley

I agree with Courtney that we need to speak up and stand out. I agree. Also, I would like to raise the point that we can talk before something is brought up. We can go and do public comment, whether it's on the docket or not. We can go and tell our stories, whether that's on the docket or not. If there's public comment, and you have lived experience, whether you were pertinent to that day or not get there tell them their story and be known. The Battle of silence is communication and telling stories and being loud since they want us to be quiet. The biggest thing with Tacoma is lately with their sweeps and stuff, they're handing out information, like a way to say yes, we're being cooperative. See this and then doing things without any warning, any communication, any form of doc

Rob Huff

you cut out there J

Jay Warley

We're getting a Ford movement to kind of hide what is actually happening and so we need to know why there's two separate things going on from Tacoma one silent and one very visible. How do we knock on their door and say, Hey, we see you

Rob Huff

Yeah, I think observing and documenting is important throughout this and especially like Courtney mentioned, providers who are seeing a change in a decrease in the number of folks who are able to access the services that you're offering, that those kinds of anecdotes are gonna be really important to let city officials know about because whether intentional or not, that's the real impact of the camping ban. Head Go ahead.

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

Ed Jacobs

Well, one that has never backed off from bringing up bad subjects. The city will not share information with us as far as names and people in different encampments. And there's nothing legally restricting us from talking to people and saying Now what was your name and writing it down? And do you have a phone number that I can contact you back and write it down? We as private citizens can ask anybody their name. And my suggestion is, if we want to change the way the city is operating, one of the steps is that we know who's out there. We know how many people in each encampment. When you get there, get names get phone numbers. And that way we can track people. And I, I send them to me, I don't know I'll create a database of of them and where they are. Because that's one of the things the city is hiding behind is we can't bring suit. On a mass level we have to bring suit on an individual level. Well we've asked multiple times for Caleb and those folks to share the information that they have. And they don't or won't. Actually, I get no response from when asked. So you know, this may be against what some people believe but we need names. We need to know who's there. So yeah, if you if you get names and phone numbers, send them to me Tell me where they are. And we'll, we'll create a database so that we can track them.

Rob Huff

I mean, while you're you're correct as especially as folks get all cleared out of the

Rob Huff

of the sites within the camping ban zones. We're going to need to know all of us will need to know and especially providers and outreach teams will need to know where people have gone so that they can reach them. All of those relationships that are developed between outreach workers and those individuals who are in those sites get broken when they have to move. So that's going to be a critical piece. Jay.

Jay Warley

One of the things to consider is one using Media Two. It has been brought up in the past that we do need names and dates and it is something that like RC other agencies in other townships and otherwise, like King County and otherwise, do share name and birthdate for people out of necessity between the service agencies. So something to consider is creating a form and a database that's made either run by the coalition or rise or someone else that's outside of Hemis that is formed based so that we take a picture of

Theresa Power-Drutis

you muted j

Jay Warley

Tacoma Pierce County Coalition to End Homelessness

<https://pchomeless.org/> - info@pchomeless.org

sorry, that's signed by somebody that says you have permission to transmit my name and birthdate, so that I can continue to receive services. Please put this in this database. Because right now that is one of our greatest challenges is everybody's saying, well, HIPAA, HIPAA and privacy. Well, if a person signs that saying these people can use this, and these people can access this, and it's a signed document, then we shouldn't have as many problems and we can do that simply with taking a picture of the document that's been signed with our phone and keeping it in a database. And that would allow us to communicate within the coalition scope at least.

Ed Jacobs

Well, NJ HIPAA does not cover. someone telling me their name. I'm not. I'm not bound by HIPAA at all.

Rob Huff

So, medical,

Jay Warley

documenting the point is getting a forum saying that you can use my name and say it that's the point. It's not the exact terminology of what's preventing us it's, we could use a form and create a database and make it accessible is the point.

Ed Jacobs

Yeah, oh, yeah. I mean, that's until until we get serious about tracking the the folks that are out there and, and getting their names and, and phone numbers. The city's not going to pay a lot of attention to us because they can always say, Well, gee, we're sorry, but we think this is the best way to go. Which is exactly what they've done.

Rob Huff

Well, this is, uh, this is good conversation, and one that probably needs to continue at a later point, something to think about here in the coming week or so. But it's definitely something to chew on. Rosemary, you had something to add. I just wanted to say that was the point in time count coming up. And the comments about people hiding in spaces that and being in places that they're pushed beyond where they might be expected to be. I don't know how much the county folks are aware of the Tacoma situation. So we just want to be sure that we communicate that at the next meeting we have so that is well known throughout.

Rosemary Powers

Rob Huff

Thank you, rosemary and Teresa.

Theresa Power-Drutis

So I just I know there are a lot of people in this room who do know Maureen I just got a text from her daughter Beth. And she's, she's in the hospital and bed says pretty serious. So she asked for people to keep Marine in your hearts today. Just passing that on.

Rob Huff

Thank you, Teresa. Okay, so yeah, go ahead, Jen.

Janet Runbeck

Is this a good time to talk about the the good news of the $5,000 from the what Foundation was that? Anyway? That's kilworth Foundation, kilworth Foundation.

Janet Runbeck

One way to support the work that we do is when you find out that there might be funding sources. We don't none of us individually can act as a representative from the coalition, but we can promote the work of our partners who belong to the coalition and you know, identify a particular project and then work with a partner to see if they qualify for funding. So in this particular case, the killer Foundation found out that we do inclement weather response as a coalition and that St. Vincent DePaul is a great provider of supplies to our outreach teams. So $5,000 was awarded to St. Vincent DePaul, just based on everybody working together. And so Dion has done a great job of assisting in our logistical needs for support items to to reach those who are unsheltered during inclement weather. So I just want to mention that when possible, think about supporting our partners in this work, and then support also means financial support whenever possible. So thank you.

Yeah, thank you, Jan, and thank you for for seeking that out. And it'll be put to good use, I'm sure by Dion and the folks there. All right. So this was intended to be a short meeting. We're about 42 minutes into it. If there's one thing that we're good at, it's it's meeting and kind of chewing on the tough issues. And dealing with the tough realities of life. Before we wrap up today, I just want to open the floor for any thing that people wanted to share for the good of the order, and then also to announce that for sure, you know, next week we will be back to our normal to our meetings and we already have a few items that we know we want to cover next week. But if if you do want to hang on this call, after we wrap up we will do a little bit of planning. So I see a couple of hands up for items for the good of the order and let's start with Sally.

Just wanted to tell people that Maureen will receive a Social Justice Award from the conversation 253 at the Martin Luther King event that they put on on January 15 and I will provide the information for you all to attend through the listserv.

Rob Huff

Thank you for doing that Sally. And Carolyn.

Carolyn Reed

Hi, Carolyn Reid. I just want to thank everybody and anybody that helped us get the revenue for housing 1/10 of 1% initiative in front of the Pierce County Council. Unfortunately they did not pass it, but they did agree to revisit this the tax in March. And my understanding is when the council does that. It's pretty apparent that the fifth vote, which would be a Republican will probably occur. But nonetheless, I think we still need to be vigilant and continue to write letters and get in front of the county council and tell them how important this money is. And because you're not, you know, passing it right now they're losing, you know, several of the $20 million a year that they could be collecting. So, time is wasting as you know and time is important and and that money we need that money. Thank you.

Rob Huff

Thank you, Carolyn. much work to do in the new year for sure. Anyone else with an with just an item for the good of the order? And Sally, I see your hand still up from before or did you want to add something? Okay. verda Go ahead.

Verda Washington

I've really benefited from being on these calls. One of the things I think about is that there are so many people out there who don't have information. You know, like we have parties where we get together and watch football and things like that. Maybe if we could start reaching out and having groups when to listen to the city council council meetings and especially when they have open forum. We I think will get a much bigger picture even then we do with them. If there's a news report in the paper, if there's something on TV, you know, it's only a few seconds, where if we listen to that whole two or three hours, I think we can get the citizens to realize just how dire some of the issues are they can get more of the full story. Thank you.

Rob Huff

Yeah, thank you Berta. And that reminds me of, of a conversation that happened earlier in December where there was a request that that members of the coalition do a campaign showing up at county and city council meetings and sharing some of those stories as individuals during public testimony. So that's something we can we should consider doing here in the New Year as well.

Because the impact of those stories is going to be much greater than as you said somebody reading it or as an individual putting it right in the front in front of those council members, whether at the city or county will have a much greater impact. Anyone else with items for the good of the order before we close our short meeting today? All right, well, I want to thank everybody for being here. Carolyn, go ahead.

I forgot to did you guys see that article in the newspaper about the city of Tacoma is going to have a community quote, quote, discussion. That is going to be they're working with University of Washington Tacoma. Something to keep an eye on some kind of community discussion forum around homelessness.

Yeah, we did see that. We discussed that a little bit at the excuse me at the steering committee meeting on Wednesday. That's something something we're definitely tracking and we'll want to make sure that the voices of the coalition are involved.

All right, well, just this discussion, that would be a great place to start.

Rob Huff

Or repeat the start I think. Go ahead. Go ahead. Yeah.

Janet Runbeck

Is Monday an official recognized holiday and if so, do does safe sites for all want to postpone?

Rob Huff

Yes, I think it is. It is.

It's just a question of whether you still want to hold it with a smaller with the likely smaller turnout or not correct. Are there enough folks on this meeting that would attend a Monday, noon, zoom, Verna will okay okay, got it. See y'all Monday.

Ed Jacobs

Jan, did you want to follow the follow the rules? I mean, that's strange for you. Yeah,

Richard Dorsett

I look I'm out. Seven days a week. The homeless people are out seven days a week. If we start missing meetings because the friggin holidays we start acting like the bureaucrats that are part of the problem on this whole. I strongly encourage you to continue with the meeting. Even if it's truncated, like today, that's fine. But if if we start following holiday schedules, we're just like the folks that aren't doing outreach on the weekends and cold weather. So I'm all for continuing to meet. Thank you.

Theresa Power-Drutis

That was a demonstration of Richard biting his tongue.

Rob Huff

Yeah. All right. Thanks, everybody, for being here. Thanks for good 2022 And let's hold Maureen and all of our thoughts today.
