01:19:08 Theresa Power-Drutis: From the Gates Foundation Page: The reason there are fewer dollars going into housing via the Gates Foundation: "Over the past 20 years, we have supported a range of programs in Washington State—including efforts to reduce family homelessness, support high-quality early learning, and invest in public libraries, equity in education, and community foundations."

01:19:40 Theresa Power-Drutis: Replying to "From the Gates Found..."

We've intensified our focus on education because too many young people here still face barriers to pursuing their educational and career goals. Only 50% of Washington's high school graduates earn a postsecondary credential, despite nearly 90% saying that they want to continue their education beyond high school. Many Black, Latino, and Indigenous students and students from low-income backgrounds face additional barriers—including lack of access to college prep support and difficulty navigating systems if they are the first in their family to pursue college.
